

Clos de Paulilles Red

Region

AOP Collioure

Winemaker notes

The Collioure appellation is comprised of 1000 hectares situated in the rolling terrain between the Pyrenees mountains and the Mediterranean. With soils comprised of mainly grey and brown schist, the region benefits from the moderating influences the altitude from slopes from the nearby mountains, the Mediterranean sea and strong, cooling Tramontane wind. The Collioure appellation is comprised of 1000 hectares situated in the rolling terrain between the Pyrenees mountains and the Mediterranean. With soils comprised of mainly grey and brown schist, the region benefits from the moderating influences the altitude from slopes from the nearby mountains, the Mediterranean sea and strong, cooling Tramontane wind. The dry wines of the region are known to have a distinct saline minerality.

Viticultural Notes

Grapes are hand-harvested.

Vintage Notes

2015 Vintage: An excellent vintage overall in terms of quality and quantity. The winter and spring were mild, kick starting the growing season earlier than normal. The region's southerly latitude spared any risk of frost with the earlier bud break. Starting in May, temperatures were warm, with cooler evenings that preserved acidities, and occasional rain storms spared the vines from hydric stress. The tramontane wind blew normally which reduced disease pressure and cooled vineyards. The coastal region of Collioure saw additional cooling effect from the sea breezes. Red wines have balanced tannins and acidity with aromatic lift and rich, ripe fruit concentration.

Wine	Clos de Paulilles Red
Estate	Domaine des Clos de Paulilles
Vintage	2015
Varietal	45% Grenache, 35% Syrah, 20% Mourvèdre
Region	AOP Collioure
Vine Age	20 years
Soil	Gravel and schist
Farming	Certified Organic
Fermentation	Bunches are 100% destemmed. Fermentation in stainless steel at 25C.
Aging	Aging for 15 months in stainless steel prior to bottling.
Alcohol	14.5%

